the same concern, sharing prayers and ceremonies to heal Mother Earth.

One highlight of this Parliament was to see a new generation of young leaders who talked about what they are doing to promote religious tolerance and discard violence of any kind. Their words and enthusiasm was very hopeful.

Locally, I was proud to witness San Diego children involved in the peace organization Hands of Peace that facilitates dialogue among teenagers from Palestine, Israel and San Diego during the summer. They engage in social activities that open their hearts and gives them hope to envision life together.

Zoey Serebriany was so moved by her experience that she started a Hands of Peace club in her school in North County to build a community of peacemaking, developing leadership, communication skills, conflict resolution and doing inner-peace work. Hands of Peace is seeking more families to host youth during the summer; encourage more young people to apply, get volunteers, and build alumni leadership throughout the year. Hands of Peace hopes to expand its program to adults in the future.

Also in attendance were San Diegans Rev. Dr. Abigail Albert and Rev. Dr. Steve Albert, founders of the All Faith Center in Poway. Dr. Abigail was one of the session presenters on "Empowered Women of Faith." They invite you to contact them for more about their year-round events to bring together people from
